Education and knowledge possess a need for responsibility; responsibility that if shunned defeats the purpose of knowledge itself. Francis Bacon stated that "Knowledge . . . is power." It is the responsible use of this power which creates the finely tuned environment that man seeks.

Therefore, arm yourself with your knowledge and use it . . .

responsibly . . .

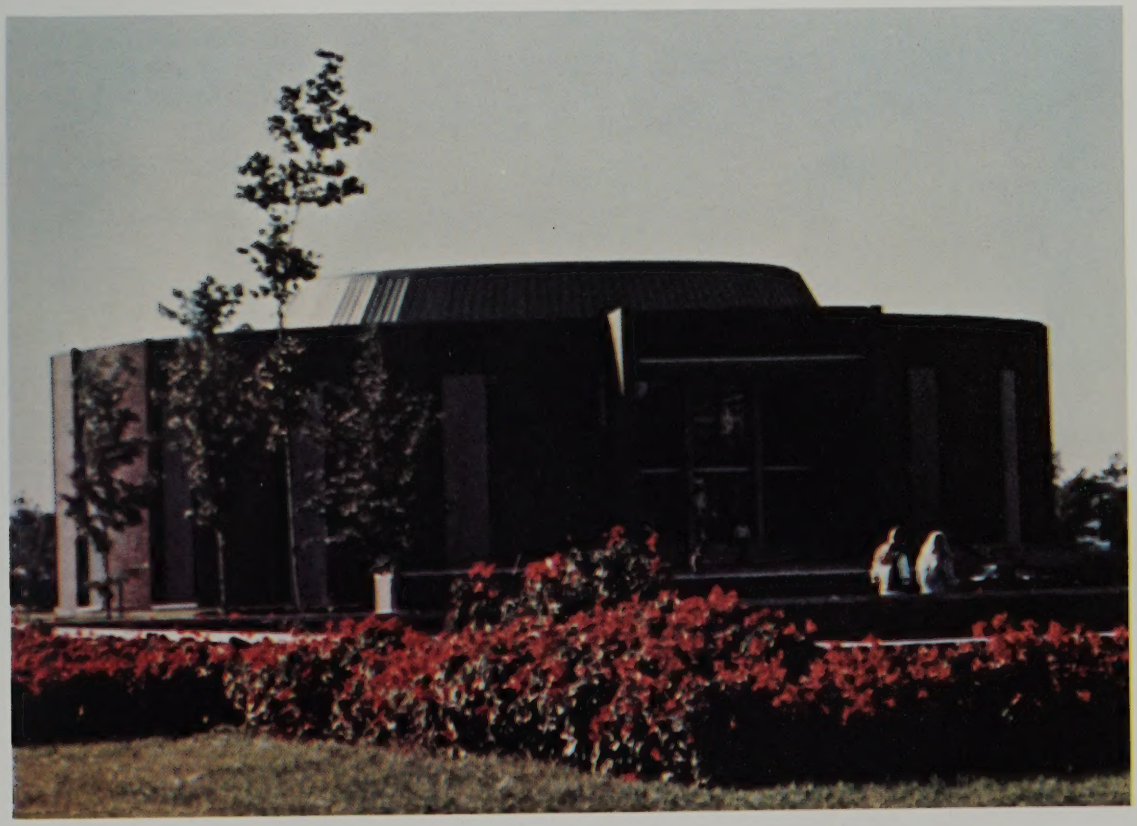
Here we have come to learn, experience, and acquire that which will broaden our horizon and create that which we desire. This community has caused a change in each of us. Perspectives have changed, as well as minds and ultimately our lives.

There are things, however, which never seems to change. Today, the mobile society and the throw away generation, we extrapolate that which gives us the security of permanence. The mountains and a quiet homestead fulfill our need for the everlasting, as does the security of a sound education which is ours to hold high and carry through our lives. We may change, but the fact that we are educated cannot.

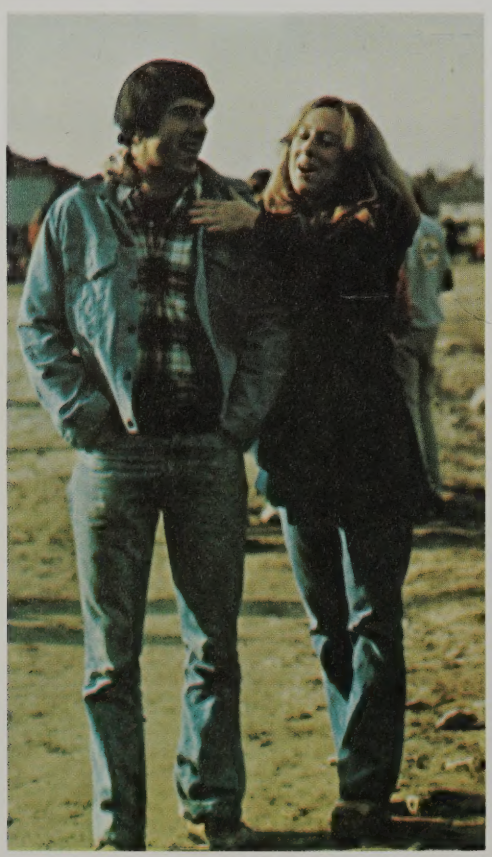
At times it seems that we are not as appreciative as the situation warrants. For some the good life is laid out on a silver platter, while for others it comes only through hard work. Regardless, you owe it to yourself to take a moment to revere that which is collectively ours, or yours individually; be it a pink pebble on the face of the earth or a dusty Degree of days past. It is yours. Relish it.

There is one thing that an education brings forth in a person; awareness. To be aware when something is right, and when something is wrong. Even more importantly, education brings forth the knowledge to discern where the fault lies. Is it within us? Are we erring as humans?

If something is amiss: correct it; if it is wrong because of man: use your knowledge to correct the flaw in man himself.



This limited span of our educational process has done more for our individuality than any other singular happening of our lives. It has made us free . . .



. . . And more compatible. A better person is born out of the educational system. A person who knows when to laugh, when to cry, and when each matters.

One day we shall all walk alone. But we can each walk high with life and proud of self, knowing that a small community nestled amid the Green Mountains has helped us better know self and others.

"Lose your dreams
And you will lose your mind."

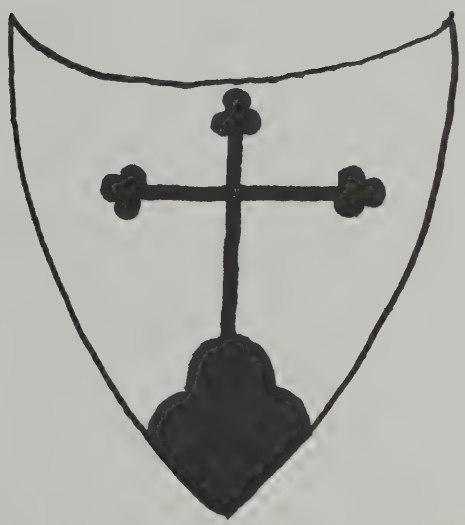
THE SHIELD



St. Michaels College
Winooski, Vermont
1975

The 1975 yearbook staff dedicates this work to Dr. John J. Hanagan. He was educated in Providence, Rhode Island at LaSalle Academy and is a 1961 graduate of Providence College. He received his master's degrees from the University of Detroit in 1964 and his Ph.D. from the University of Toronto in 1973. Dr. Hanagan came to St. Michaels in 1967. He has recently been named Chairman of the Philosophy Department and is a member of the Faculty Welfare Committee. Dr. Hanagan has been chosen for the 1974-1975 edition of "Outstanding Educators of America." This volume honors both his academic accomplishments as well as his civic contributions. Besides his academic achievements, Dr. Hanagan has exhibited great performance in other areas. Perhaps his most laudable trait is the dedication he has to what is right and just. Last year he headed an ad hoc committee which attempted to insure the rights of a fellow faculty member. When all was over he stated that one must "act in a way worthy of respect." Dr. Hanagan, you have done just that . . .

SENIOR

On a night bound by walls —
Walls and the voices of people
Strolling and stopping
To litter the darkness
With chatter and typewritten footsteps,
I sit in a classroom
Trying to learn
The wisdom of ages,
The crabbed ancient tongue.
But, Ovid, no wisdom I'm learning from you —
Just the folly of ages,
The language of love;
While outside the window
The sounds of the night
Hint of strange metamorphoses
Under the trees.

FOOTBALL

Under new head coach Art Coggio and his assistants Jerry Flanagan and Vince Obremski, the Purple Knights Football Team compiled a season record of two wins and two losses.

In the first game of the season the Knights lost to Dean Junior College by a score of 24-0.

Following the loss to Dean Junior College, a large crowd was on hand to see St. Michaels defeat Bentley on Homecoming Weekend. A couple of touchdowns and runs by the Knights proved to be the margin of victory for St. Michaels.

Western New England handed St. Michaels a 28-14 loss in the next encounter. Two Spellman to Gringras touchdown passes were not enough to put down the Bears of Western New England.

St. Michaels then marched over the Norwich Cadets in the season's finale with a score of 20-15.

Much of the credit for the success of the 1974-75 season goes to the three outstanding seniors. Quarterback Ollie Speelman showed poise and confidence in leading the team's offensive drives. Dave Buteau became a sort of unsung hero in the trenches in his four years at St. Mike's. He had a great year as one of the team's co-captains.

On the defensive squad was Dennis Greenwood, also a senior. His hard hitting style was evidenced in every play.

PURPLE KNI

BASKETBALL

The 1974-75 basketball season ended with a record of thirteen wins and eleven losses. It was a bit of a disappointment to many who felt this team would do big things. Inexperience and lack of depth added up to a .500 season.

The Knights opened their season by losing to Bridgeport. After dropping their next two contests, St. Mike's beat St. Anslem's for the first win of the season.

The Knights wound up third this year in the LeMoyne Christmas Tournament at Syracuse. Things never clicked after that. Many times the team would be up by 10 or 15 points at halftime, only to lose it all in the second period.

One highlight of the season for the Basketball Knights was the strong finish. At the end of the season they won their last five games.

Next year's team will surely miss senior's Gene Cizynski and John Lanchantin. Gene passed the 1000 point mark this season with some strong outside shooting, but he will always be remembered for that great defensive ability.

John Lanchantin, the sixth man of the past few years could always come on the floor and get the Knights attack rolling once more. His soft shot from the corner was a sure sign of 2 points on the board.

Juniors Ken Johnson and John Balczuk also reached the 1000 point plateau this season. Both are expected to play a big role in next year's season.

In time we have learned the right moves, knowing how to leave straight deep tracks and retrace the steps leaving no clue to those who might follow.

THE EIGHTH ANNUAL WINOOSKI RIVER RAFT RACE

"St. Michael's soccer surprised quite a few people this year," stated coach Chris Harris after the team had completed their season record at 4-5-2. The team had a disasterous season in 1973 winning only one game. This season they began to put it together again.

The Knights in 1974 defeated Norwich twice, Castleton State and St. Anslem's. The team tied North Adams and Johnson State while losing to Middlebury, Plattsburg, St. Lawrence, and the University of Vermont twice.

SOCCER

Seniors Jeff Macgil and Rick Lajoie will surely be missed next year but, minus these two, the team is intact. Jeff did a supurb job in the goal all year long under a great deal of pressure. Rick also should be lauded for the fine sportsmanship he exhibited in the center halfback position.

Next year assistant coach Bill Willey will be assuming the position as head coach for the soccer team.

CROSS COUNTRY

It was a poor season for the Cross Country team. In 1974-75 they finished last in the eight meets they competed in. Lack of experience proved to be the Archille's heel for the Knights. This years team consisted of four freshmen, one sophomore, two juniors, and two seniors. With so many underclassmen the Cross Country program has a strong nucleus for the future.

Freshman Mark Gallagher proved to be the top runner for St. Mike's throughout the season. In ten out of eleven meets that St. Michael's competed in Mark was the first Knight across the finish line. He won the annual Alumni meet.

Senior captain, Bob Cody, was named the most valuable runner by Cross Country coach Bob Pecor. Cody and fellow senior Kevin Prufer were cited for their leadership and consistency throughout the season.

ST. MICHAEL'S COLLEGE FIRE DEPARTMENT AND RESCUE SQUAD

A hunter collapsed on a mountain in Bolton. State police and members of a rescue squad trekked the last four miles through snow and freezing November temperatures, reaching the victim at two in the morning. The hunter's body was finally carried out at 5:00 a.m.

On an icy winter day at 7:00 p.m., a tractor trailer crashed through an Interstate Highway 89 guard rail and plunged 100 feet onto a ledge above the Winooski River. The driver's legs were pinned in the crushed cab. The first rescue squad on the scene gave aid and oxygen to the man whose life was saved. The first fire squad on the scene put foam on the smoldering engine and burning battery cables while the cab was jacked apart and the driver lifted out.

In each of the two cases above, the rescue and fire squads were volunteer students from St. Michael's College. They are young men and women of whom all alumni, parents and friends of the college should be proud.

This past Spring, the St. Michael's Volunteer Fire and Rescue Services celebrated its fifth year of action. A concerned Committee of Campus Safety was set up to organize a rescue service in 1969 because area ambulances had proved inadequate in emergencies involving undergraduates. The committee went to then President Bernard L. Boutin who gave $4,500 for the start of the rescue and fire squads. They started operations in 1970.

The rescue service was the first to be set up. With the help of first-aid experienced students Thomas Powers and Peter Maloska, a training program was started. A student owning a 1961 GMC van sold it to the college and this delivery van was converted into an ambulance. In its first year of service, students on the rescue squad responded to 78 individuals in need in the greater Burlington area. The present figure has grown to over 2,400 calls.

The driving force behind the squad is Dean of Students Donald R. Sutton who is the current Chief of St. Michael's Volunteer Fire and Rescue Services. One of the main reasons for the squad's creation, noted Dean Sutton, was to improve community relations between the college and the surrounding area. Sutton said, "We wanted to make people realize that the students are concerned."

The Dean is also the main force behind the start of the St. Michael's Volunteer Fire Department. In nine degree weather back in 1970 he drove the Ward LaFrance fire pumper truck from Hazlet, New Jersey to St. Michael's. He purchased the 1957 model engine from Hazlet after negotiating the price down to $3,000. At the time, skepticism was displayed in the idea of students handling professional equipment in a professional manner. St. Michael's was the first college to have such a project in Vermont and the college has set a precedent copied by other schools in this state as well as elsewhere.

An example of how the student fire-fighting team has helped the college community is in the Ryan Hall fire two years ago. Early on that bitter cold morning, a fire broke out in a 3rd floor room of this women's dormitory. Evacuation of the building and extinguishing of the fire was provided by the squads with the help of five local units. Dean Sutton was taken to Fanny Allen Hospital for treatment of smoke inhalation and several others were treated also.

The volunteer fire service now functions as a batallion of the Colchester Volunteer Fire Company. All 30 members of the squad must attend the fire-fighting school taught in Colchester and go through a six month probation period. Present headquarters for the unit is an old converted gas station on the north campus of the college.

Serving a population of approximately 40,000 men, women and children, the rescue squad's district (which is assigned by the state) encompasses nearly 170 square miles of Chittenden County.

The students of the rescue squad receive advanced paramedical training and experience far beyond standard first aid training. They must complete the American Red Cross and Advanced First Aid Courses, weekly refresher sessions, as well as a Vermont Heart Association sponsored course.

In 1973, the Northern New England Regional Medical Program, RMP, a Federally funded program in joint cooperation with the Medical Center of Vermont in Burlington, named the St. Michael's rescue squad as the primary ambulance for a project known as the "High Risk Infant / Mother Transport System". This project provides transportation for premature and seriously ill newborn infants from outlying hospitals in Vermont and New Hampshire to the Medical Center, where special intensive care nurseries and highly trained doctors greatly increase the chances of survival for such infants. RMP donated $1,000 to the St. Michael's rescue squad for the project.

In 1971, the students in the Volunteer Fire and Rescue Services were maned Citationists in the National Volunteer Awards competition of the National Center of Voluntary Action.

As the reputation of the students' skill and dedication began to grow, they received more and more calls to the outlying areas. Starting out as a backup unit in 1970, they now have other groups backing them up.

The first paragraph of this story on the St. Michael's Volunteer Fire and Rescue Services concerned the squad's desperate night attempt to reach a dying hunter in the Bolton mountains. On December 10, 1971 the widow of that hunter wrote Dean Sutton the following note which seems to be the attitude of these Volunteer Michaelmen:

> "We have received your names as being the men who participated in the rescue of Bob Lanard on November 26, 1971. You didn't know Bob, but his spirit was like yours. He would take any risk to help a friend. When you volunteered for the job you did, you never know what risks were involved. You just said I'll go, no matter who needs help."

To The Class of '75:

Successful completion of a required academic course at any respected liberal arts college is a significant achievement. You have reason to be proud of the accomplishment. We share that pride with you and we offer sincere congratulations.

Equally appropriate, it seems to me, would be an expression of thanks. For four years this campus has been your milieu. You have been part and parcel of our daily life and you have shared community with us. While we are confident that you have profited from the four-year association, we are certain, too, that your presence has enriched our lives. We are grateful to each of you, and indebted to you as well.

There remains one important piece of unfinished business that requires your continued association and generous cooperation. Saint Michael's College has been about the business of Catholic higher education since 1903. No public is as well equipped to appraise our work as is our alumni. We both need and welcome your honest and constructive criticism. It is of great value to us now. It will be of even greater value to us next year and five years from now.

As we wish each of you well, we invite you to remain closely associated with our efforts. Help us to continually refine our efforts for the good of succeeding generations of Michaelmen. It is a service you are especially well equipped to offer and one we would be most grateful to receive.

Farewell and Godspeed!

F. E. Moriarty, sse.

Skiing

Considered by many to be a trial season, the Ski Team faired very well in 1974-75.

The Varsity Ski Team was almost lost to the College due to a budget cut in the summer of 1974. Due to the demands of many, the Knights continue to compete on the slopes.

This past season St. Michaels competed in six meets; Windham College, Franklin-Pierce College, Lyndon, Norwich, Bowdoin-Colby, and Keene State College. The team consisted of 70% freshmen and sophomores, and two of the first coeds to ski for St. Mike's; Colleen Doyle and Evelyn Hammar. The Team found itself strong in the Alpine events, but hurting in the Nordic competition.

Sophomore Mike Noonan proved to be the best Alpine racer and the most consistent finisher for the Knights. Time and time again Mike would finish in the top five in the Downhill and Giant Slalom races.

Senior captain Bob Foster led the team in the Nordic events, both jumping and Cross Country. Bob played a big role in keeping Skiing competition at St. Michaels.

Swim Team

In its premier season as a Varsity sport, the St. Michaels Swimming Team compiled a record of 1 win and 6 loses.

The team, consisting of only 13 members, lacked the depth needed to compete strongly in their first year.

The individuals on the team did well over the season. Excluding the Butterfly competition, the team set school records in all eleven of the events in which they competed this year.

Co-captains Tom Ackerly, a senior, and John Cahill, a junior, were the individual standouts. Ackerly set St. Michaels records in the 1000, 500, and 200 yard free style events, and Cahill broke the records for the 50, 1C0, and 200 yard competition.

Senior Bill Leavy set an individual record for St. Michaels in the 1-meter dive. Jim Buonocore, another member of the Class of '75, along with teammates Ackerly, Bob Lambert, and Cahill set the record for the 400 yard free style relay.

Other members of the 74-75 team, including four coeds were; Cheryl Soares, Nancy Cornish, Kareen Kendrick, John Karanian, Greg Brisee, Bill Hayes, Ann Boucher, and Senior Kevin Hayes.

Women's Basketball

The Women's Basketball Team, still considered to be in the growing stages, had a rough year. Their overall record was 3 wins and 8 loses.

The girls worked hard all year, but inexperience is a hard foe to overcome. And thus, the team often found itself on the short end of scoring.

Forward Mary Horan proved to be the team's most valuable player, as she combined good offensive and defensive abilities in games throughout the season.

Coach Arlene Fraga, in her first year at St. Michaels, comprised her squad of mostly young players. All of the girls will be back next year, and the majority of them for the next few years. The program should continue to grow and improve in the near future.

To All,

The creation of a yearbook can be described as nothing less than a "creation." It is the taking of concepts and molding them into a reality.

The reality is what precedes this, the concepts were numerous.

The Staff and I tried to capture the moments of joy for all at St. Mike's. We hope this will be your private collage of life at the Swill.

The time has been short, but the times have been good. Have a good life and enjoy what it has to offer, but most of all give it all you have. (I'll stop here or this will begin to sound like a "Soft Touch" card.)

Yours,
Rosemary Carroll

Maybe you haven't thought much about it until now, but there are many ways the old bank can help you in the years ahead. Assistance obtaining a student loan to continue your education, savings plans that pay the highest rate of interest to make it possible to get a home mortgage, and some pretty good advice on how to handle money from the Specialists in Thrift

Stop in at the bank and talk it over. We have been helping students plan for the future since 1847.
